

Travel

The idea for the travel group is to meet in a social group to discuss our travels past, future and bucket lists. Also, for those of us that travel alone, we may form friendships with other travel loving single people that may be willing to share rooms/cabins. If we get a large enough group, we may be able to plan some group travel. The group is open to ideas and hopes to have an initial meeting in early September. The date and location will be based on the number of members and convenient times for the majority. Please watch the website for further details or contact group leader.
