

If you're an amateur pianist and would like to get together with others – say once a month – why not give the Piano Club a try?

Music is written to be played and listened to and this is a venue which provides the opportunity for both.

In these sessions you can listen, or share with others a work in progress or play a finished piano solo. Just whatever you are comfortable with.

Either way, you'll be part of a friendly and mutually supportive group.

Do give it "a go"!
